

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is partially obscured by two dark, rectangular marks (possibly holes or damage). The script is dense and difficult to decipher, but appears to be a continuous line of writing.

பலகையின்

Handwritten text in Chinese characters, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is arranged in several horizontal lines across the page. The characters are written in a cursive style, typical of traditional Chinese calligraphy. The document appears to be a record or a letter, possibly related to the National Archives of the Republic of China, as indicated by the stamp on the left.

[illegible]

[illegible]

Handwritten Burmese text on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. On the left side, there is a circular library stamp with the word "NATIONAL" visible at the bottom. The script is a traditional Burmese style, likely from the 19th or early 20th century. The leaf shows signs of age, including discoloration and some wear.

[illegible]

[illegible]

Handwritten Burmese script in a single line across the page. The text is densely packed and appears to be a continuous passage. There are several small circular marks and some characters that are slightly larger or bolder than the others, possibly indicating specific points of interest or punctuation. The script is written in a traditional style, with some variations in the shape of the characters.

Small handwritten notes or marginalia on the right side of the page, written in a different style or script, possibly a later addition or a different dialect.

157

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

