The Russian Campaign.

The Situation Near Baghdad.

Petrograd, July 6.—The General staff estimates the Austrian losses at over half a million a month. Military writers are most optimistic at the prospects. The Russian guns are pounding at Baranovitchi on three sides at a four mile range.

The Russians are enveloping with their left wing on the Styre the Germans who in the Chartorysk region are frantically striving to counteract the great Lutz thrust.

Petrograd, July 6.—The communique records successes in many sectors from Riga to the Carpathians. A thousand of the enemy were taken prisoner in the region of Baranovitchi. The enemy on the right bank of the Dniester were routed and hundreds taken prisoner.

The small town of Mikolitchi on the railway to Korosniz from Delatyn has been captured.

Petrograd, July 6.—Official. The Russians have over ten thousand more prisoners including five thousand on the Dniester.

The communique reports successful artillery engagements on the Dvina above Friedricksdorf. The fighting at Baranovitchi is continuing to our advantage, all enemy attacks to retake ground failed. We captured 78 officers and 3,000 men between July 3-5.

The communique further mentions that during the fighting on the right of the Dniester the Germans defending a village received the assailants with jets of liquid fire. Consequently when the village was captured after a great charge of Crimean Tartars the German prisoners were bayoneted. A thousand other prisoners were taken. A gallant feat was performed by a score of Cossacks who swam the Dniester and captured a village and a hundred prisoners and a gun.

The Austrian communique admits a retirement of two miles on a front.

Petrograd, July 7.—The communique says: The Russians have had fresh success south of the Pinsk marshes and took three thousand prisoners in addition to those in the Baranovitchi region.

Petrograd, July 7.—A later communique says: The prisoners taken between July 4-5 west of the Styre line below Kolki were 300 officers 7,115 men, many guns, rifles, etc.

Violent German attacks near Grazia were repulsed.

There was fierce fighting on the right bank of the Dniester near Jivachoff and Hobzimir.

Desperate enemy attacks eastwards and south-eastwards of Baranovitchi were repulsed.

The Turks in the Caucasus between the Taurus river and the Chorokh and also in the Diarbekir region are being steadily driven back with great losses.

In Mesopotamia.

It is unofficially stated in Petrograd that the Russians in the Bagdad direction have retired eighty miles, not merely under pressure of the Turks, who have concentrated there a force designed for Egypt, besides troops recently in Bulgaria and thirty thousand formerly threatening Salonika, but also the intense heat of Mesopotamia. The Russians will seek the coolness of the hills and await a more favourable season to advance.

Petrograd, July 8.—The communique says: The Russians captured over ten thousand prisoners and many guns in two days fighting west of the lower Styre, and routed the Austro-Germans west of the river Styre.

The Russians west of the Styre captured strong Austro-German positions. The enemy fleeing abandoned numerous prisoners and Russians pursuing captured two villages and a railway station and many guns, including a battery of six which surrendered to a cavalry charge after only a few shots. An attempt of the enemy to attack north-west of Kimpoling was repulsed. German trenches were captured by the bayonet southwest of lake Naroez where fierce fighting continues.

Other Fields.

Petrograd, July 8.—The communique says: We had further successes on the Styre and captured the small town of Gradie and a village on the main road to Kolki. The number of Austro-German prisoners is increasing. We captured an enemy position east of Delatyn.

A German counter attack south-east of lake Naroez regained part of the lost trenches. Violent enemy counter attacks east of Baranovitchi pressed us back slightly but a concentrated fire forced them to withdraw.

Petrograd, July 9.—The steady Russian approach to Kovle is shown in the communique which chronicle the capture of a new line halfway between Chartorysk and Kovle. The most important capture was the station of Manievichy, where two thousand prisoners were taken.

A great charge of Cossacks cut up Austrian masses making prisoner of six hundred.

Petrograd, July 9.—The communique says that Brusiloff's troops are approaching the Stokhod, everywhere overthrowing the enemy, who are resisting desperately.

The Russians in three days fighting between the Styre and Stokhod took twelve thousand prisoners and forty five guns.

Fierce fighting has occurred on the front east of Baranovitchi.

In the Caucasus.

In the Caucasus in the Djivizlitz region important Turkish forces attacked at dawn on July 5 and invaded our trenches but were driven out by bomb and bayonet with heavy losses of men and material. Eastward of Balburt we took the offensive and carried a series of strongly organised works on a dominating height.

IT STANDS TO REASON

that the best proof of the excellence of any medical preparation is its reputation for success. Beecham's Pills have been before the public for upwards of half a century and it is acknowledged that they are, in every respect, the best of their kind. Their enormous sales are still in the increase. No medicine has ever achieved such a remarkable success unless it had proved itself to be of very real worth and practical value.

Beecham's Pills

have inspired public confidence. In thousands of homes, today, experience has proved the benefits obtained from the use of these pills in cases of biliousness, sluggish liver, impaired digestion and a disordered condition of the bowels. As a safe and prudent thing should you feel "out-of-sorts" to rely upon the curative properties of this excellent preparation. You will speedily find that Beecham's Pills

WILL DO YOU GOOD.

Russo-Japanese Convention.

London, July 7.—(Reuters) learns that Great Britain has expressed satisfaction at the Russo-Japanese treaty of alliance which is regarded in every way as strengthening the Anglo-Japanese alliance and consolidating the relations of all the Allies in the Far East.

Petrograd, July 7.—The new Russo-Japanese convention deals with the attitude of each power in the event of any political engagement or combination directed against the other. It also provides in the event of any menace to the territorial rights or special interests in the Far East of one of the contracting parties which is recognised by the other, Russia and Japan will consult regarding the measures to be taken with a view to support and co-operation for the safeguarding and defence of these rights and interests.

Petrograd, July 8.—M. Sazonoff, interviewed, said that the Russo-Japanese agreement would enable Russia to devote all her energies to a solution of the problems created by the war in the West with the assurance that no power would take an unfair advantage of China to carry out ambitious plans, as was the case with other countries bordering on Russia in the East.

Shipping Casualties.

London, July 6.—Lloyd's agent at Malta says the Monmouthshire reports she sank the Persian, Calcutta to London. The crew were saved.

The Persian was off Crete when she lost a man overboard. Two hours later the Monmouthshire approached the Persian which had stopped and the Monmouthshire manoeuvring to turn struck the Persian amidships. The latter sank in ten minutes. The Monmouthshire which is damaged has arrived with the crew.

London, July 7.—The British steamer Gunnet has been sunk.

Amsterdam, July 7.—The Germans claim to have captured the British steamer Rostrick near the English coast.

The Irish Question.

London, July 7.—At a meeting of Unionist members of the House of Commons to discuss the Irish settlement it is stated Mr. Bonar Law, Lord Lansdown and Mr. Walter Long replied to their opponents urging the Imperial necessity of an Irish settlement.

At the instance of Mr. Bonar Law no resolution was proposed at the meeting which generally endorsed the attitude of the leaders. The fact that six Unionist cabinet ministers were present is regarded as indicating that a split in the party is unlikely.

Mr. Hughes and Munitions.

London, June 9.—At the luncheon of the Imperial Council of Commerce, Mr. Hughes, responding for the guests, said that the first meeting of the fleets in anything like battle array had dissolved doubts about future conflicts. The Empire mourned the loss of Lord Kitchener, who had forged from peaceful citizens this weapon that would enable us to meet the greatest foe.

"During my recent visit to France," proceeded Mr. Hughes, "I saw the Australians fit, cheery, and ready, but disappointed that the conditions of warfare prevented them matching themselves man for man. Every where there was the same story. Although incomparably better than a year ago, we still lack the power to break down the German defence. The end is not near. Britain and her Allies cannot hold on for ever. What must be done must be done quickly. Our needs are machinery and munitions, which must be immediately supplied.

"We cannot be victorious unless we develop every resource and exert every power. The Germans came out to break the blockade. If the blockade had been established earlier it would have curtailed the war. We must now make the blockade more stringent, a hoop of steel through which nothing can pass. We must choose between offending neutrals and inviting defeat. We must exert the economic weapon and destroy the German hope that over the mountains of their dead it will still be possible to climb to the heights of victory, namely, by economic domination, and make Germany realise that that would bring us nearer victory than the destruction of one of her armies."

Sir G. E. Foster, Canadian Trade Minister, said the war was commenced 50 years ago. If Germany's peaceful penetration had continued for another quarter of a century we would be fighting under more adverse circumstances. "When the battle is at an end," he added, "and the economic war begins, we must not be dashed on the same rock of unpreparedness."

Field Marshal French reports that at 10.30 yesterday evening a German submarine appeared off the small undefended port of Seaham (N. E. of England) and the harbour. A woman walking in the colliery yards was seriously injured. A house was struck by a shell and another shell caused casualties and damages.

"ETERNITY," said the country exporter, who wanted to make things clear, "is for ever and ever, and five or six overlappings on top of that. Why, brothers and sisters, after millions and billions of centuries had rolled away in eternity, it would still be a hundred thousand years to breakfast time."

The match resulted in a win for the former team by 6 goals to 3. There was a big crowd to witness the game. Phya Prasiddhi Subhakar, the President of the Association, was among those present. Rain fell during the course of the game but did not interfere with play going on. Luang Prapoudh was the referee.

Switzerland's Dilemma.

London, June 28.—Switzerland holds about £40,000 worth of cotton and food, bought by the Germans before cotton was declared contraband, and an arrangement has been made between Switzerland and the Allies concerning re-exportation. Germany threatens that unless the goods are delivered within a fortnight she will withhold German coal of which the Swiss take 12,000 tons daily at less than a fifth of the price of coal from Italy.

Mr. E. W. Trotter left to-day by the s.s. Boribot for Patani on business connected with the Police and Gendarmerie department. He will be away from Bangkok for about a month.

Mr. L. R. de la Mahotiere, who retired from the post of City Engineer some time back, left for Europe by the s.s. Kajane yesterday. His many friends will regret to learn that he does not intend coming back to Siam.

French National Day.

The French National Day was quietly observed yesterday. Falling as it did at the opening of the Khao Wasah holidays the day was observed as a general holiday. The local banks were closed and many firms shut up their offices. A reception was held at the French Legation in the morning for the members of the French community and the protégés only.

Among those who left cards at the Legation were Lieut. General Phya Deb Arjun, A. D. C., Colonel Phra Throng Suradej, A. D. C., H. R. H. Prince Paribatra, H. R. H. Prince Chakrabongse, H. R. H. Prince Devawongse, H. R. H. Prince Damrong, H. R. H. Prince Naris, H. R. H. Prince Svasti, and H. R. H. Prince Kampeng-bejara.

Germany's Reserves.

London, June 28.—It is not believed in French circles that Germany is moving large bodies of troops across Europe, but that they are leaving the Eastern and Western fronts to stand independently. It is wise to recognise that they must have strong forces available. Their leaders are not so stupid as to waste men recklessly as at Verdun, unless they saw a way to fill the gaps. The Germans never launched an infantry attack against fortified positions without a previous rehearsal. The regiments chosen are taken to a place in the neighbourhood where dummy works are built and trenches dug in exact imitation of the position to be attacked, as checked by aviators' photographs; the men are thoroughly drilled and then taken to the real position, provided with maps.

London, June 22.—The military correspondent of the "Times," recognising that despite a paucity of reserves, the German military machine is intact, argues that victory through starvation is insufficient. We must defeat Germany in the field. The conditions are favourable. It remains for generalship and hard fighting to take advantage thereof.

The Somme-Ancre Battle.Allies Slow But Steady Progress.

London, July 7.—General Haig reports that the British to-day at dawn renewed a vigorous offensive in certain sectors east of Albert. The Germans simultaneously launched heavy attacks on our new trenches in the vicinity of the Ancre and north of Fricourt. Violent fighting is proceeding on the whole front between the Ancre and Montauban.

Our infantry gained several important tactical successes in the vicinity of Ovillers, la Boisselle and Contal Maison, but northwest of Thiepval the enemy succeeded temporarily in regaining two hundred yards of lost ground.

The enemy heavily bombarded our new positions in Vernafay wood and Montauban and near la Boisselle sometimes using lacrymatory shells. After severe fighting eastward of la Boisselle where in the enemy suffered heavily we captured another trench on a front of a thousand yards where we are now firmly established. We completely crushed a determined attack southwest of Thiepval.

London, July 8.—General Haig's communique says despite the enemy's stubborn resistance our infantry well assisted by artillery pushed their advance most gallantly in the morning and gained several important points. They stormed the immensely strong Leipzig redoubt south of Thiepval and forced a way into Ovillers where fierce fighting continues. They advanced on a front of two thousand yards and a depth of five hundred east of la Boisselle and drove the enemy from two woods and three lines of trenches north of Fricourt.

The Leipzig Redoubt.

The Leipzig redoubt is situated in a German salient and had been fortified to the utmost of the enemy's ingenuity during the last twenty months. It was stormed after a fierce bombardment. One of our brigades farther south attacking from the west forced its way across five-hundred yards of German front line trench into Ovillers. The Prussian guard was thrown into the fight at ten in the morning east of Contal Maison in a desperate effort to force us back but their attack was crushed by our fire. The enemy subsequently retired northwards leaving seven hundred prisoners.

Our infantry at noon stormed the village of Contal Maison but a strong counter-attack dislodged us. The enemy's casualties to-day must have been very severe. Large numbers of troops retiring over the open being caught by our artillery and the village of Bazentin le Petit was heavily shelled when full of German reserves. An officer prisoner states his battalion was shelled by an aeroplane machine gun at an altitude of three hundred feet when marching to the battlefield and subsequently the same battalion was heavily shelled by our long range guns. Heavy rain throughout the day and sodden ground and flooded trenches added to the difficulties of the troops.

Bad Weather.

London, July 8.—Later—General Haig reports heavy rain has impeded operations between the Ancre and Somme. We captured in the last few days twenty guns, fifty-one machine guns, a large number of automatic rifles and trench-motors and a mass of other war material.

We bombarded enemy trenches in the neighbourhood of Gommecourt. Our aeroplanes, despite unfavourable weather, did most valuable service. In addition to action cooperation with the artillery they bombed a hostile aeroplane at Donat completely wrecking the hangar and doing other damage.

The French artillery on our right greatly assisted our advance. The enemy lost severely from the combined Anglo-French bombardment. A German counter-attack made in mass formations across the open completely broke down under the fire of the eighteen pounders and the seventy-fives. The enemy retired in disorder.

Hand to hand fighting continues in the ruins of Ovillers. Our aeroplanes and kite balloons worked despite cloudy weather, photographing, directing the fire of the batteries, caused an explosion of an enemy ammunition depot, and bombed his billets. A British machine, although disabled, fought three hostile aeroplanes for twenty minutes and returned safely. Otherwise there were few enemy machines seen: they were far behind the enemy trenches.

London, July 9.—Sir Douglas Haig reports that the fighting to-day was chiefly on our extreme right, where we gained further important success. We stormed a line of trenches and gained a lodgment in the strongly defended Trones Wood, capturing one hundred and thirty prisoners and several machine-guns. We repulsed a strong counter-attack.

We also appreciably advanced in the neighbourhood of Ovillers.

Reuter's Accounts.

London, July 7.—The correspondent of Reuter at headquarters says the Allies are busy consolidating their gains and preparing for the next mighty thrust. Meanwhile they are continually battering, bombing and bayoneting the enemy most effectively. The struggle is somewhat reminiscent of Verdun with the important distinction that the enemy does not possess the lines of fortifications whereon to retreat from the smashing blows. From the coast to the trenches northern France is flooded with onflowing streams of khaki. The contagious confidence of our army is irresistible. Prisoners testify that all is not harmony in the enemy ranks. The Saxons are unanimously tired of the war and glad to be captured. Fuller details of the northern attack on July 1 show that concentrated enemy machine-guns took a terrible toll of the British ranks. The East Lancs, York and Lancs, Warwicks, Rifle Brigade, Somerset and Haits Regiments suffered most severely while the Ulster division had also fearful losses. We are winning the war but the price is heavy.

London, July 9.—Reuter's correspondent at headquarters, writing on Saturday evening, reviewing the progress, says:—We have pushed in the German salient between Albert and the Somme. The greatest depth of advance is three miles. We hold the villages of Montauban, Fricourt, Mametz and are well across the outskirts of Contalmaison. We are firmly established at various intervening tactically important points. We have taken upwards of six thousand prisoners, twenty-one guns, fifty-one machine-guns, etc.

The enemy's losses are most terrible. For instance, the remnants of the third division of the Prussian Guards were withdrawn as no longer war worthy. The prisoners say that the moral of the Guards is most shaken including that of the officers.

The spirit of the British is wonderful. Though the ground is quagmire there are few stragglers in the attack, so eager are they to get to close quarters.

We have every reason to be satisfied with our progress and the prospects.

The Paris Accounts.

Paris, July 8.—The afternoon communique says: The night was calm on both banks of the Somme. There were very violent artillery duels at Thiaumont, Fleury and le Chenoy.

German aeroplanes bombed the open town of Euro, 11 women and children were killed and two wounded. The attack has been noted in view of reprisals.

A French aeroplane bombed the railway junction of Lam les Moines west of Chateaufort and killed two German aeroplanes.

Straightening the Line.

Paris, July 8.—The official makes a feature of the resumption of the British offensive on July 7 from Thiepval to the point of junction with the French, saying that before the battle can resume its victorious course the British and French sectors must be brought in line. The success of the British yesterday sealed the formation of a sinuous line but this will be rectified by a subsequent advance for the action continues completely in favour of the British and in conformity with the plan of the Anglo-French command.

Paris, July 8.—The afternoon communique says: Nothing is reported from the Somme front. There was sharp fighting on the right of the Meuse. A German attack on our positions at the Thiaumont work gained a footing in our advanced trenches but a counter-attack entirely restored our line in the immediate vicinity of the work. There was a violent artillery duel north of Fort Souville.

London, July 8.—Despatches from Paris state the British guns are again thundering on the whole front from the Somme to Belgium with an intensity equal to last week. The French recognise that British had not merely to meet the pick of the enemy forces but to face strongly fortified ridges while the French profited by the division of the German rear by the broad valley of the Somme, but similar obstacles now confront the French. All accounts show undiminished eagerness of the allied troops to attack.

Other Rumours.

German papers received from Holland betray the alarm and anxiety of the German public at the Allies' unexpected success and warn readers that the offensive has only started, and decisive successes are not impossible.

Lord Escher writing from France says the mighty German effort is dying and there are manifold signs of disintegration of the enemy force and lowering of morale.

Paris, July 8.—Bad weather hampered operations. We progressed east of Estrees.

There was a violent artillery duel in the north and on the northern points of the Verjun front.

Paris, July 9.—The communique says that notwithstanding persistent rain and fog, the French in the morning assaulted the village of Hardecourt, and a hill to the north in conjunction with the British, who attacked Trones Wood Farm south east of the wood. The French gained their objectives in thirty five minutes. Two German counter-attacks on the hill in the afternoon were shattered by our fire.

There was nothing south of the Somme. There was intermittent bombardment on the left and a fierce cannonade on the right of the Meuse.

Reuter's correspondent, on the British front, Saturday evening, wires:—The British to-day on a considerable front advanced half a mile in conjunction with the French.

We also progressed at Contal Maison where the position is satisfactory.

I am proud of my troops and none could have fought more bravely." General Haig replied "All ranks will do their utmost to continue to deserve your Majesty's praise."

Rome, July 7.—Official. There is intense artillery activity between the Adige and Astico. Operations in other theatres are proceeding in favour of the Italians.

London, June 22nd.—A B-rme wireless message says that the Austrians intend to abandon Bukovina and make a stand on the Rodina Pass.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Central News says that the Burgomasters of Kolomea and Stanislaw have arrived in Vienna.

The Russian Invalid hints at the imminence of important events on the Dvinsk-Vilna front.

London, June 21st.—A Swiss despatch to the Agencia Libera says that the German General Staff, the Kaiser presiding, sat specially to consider the abandonment of Verdun in favour of a concentration against Russia. It was agreed that the German force in the east were insufficient.

London, June 24th.—The Pall Mall Gazette points out that throughout the Verdun operations France has ceded ground at the price of German casualties, believing that the process will end in Germany's ruin. There is no reason to doubt that the policy is working satisfactorily.

Allahabad, June 24th.—That the Germans are in numerical inferiority to the Allies on the western front is a matter of common knowledge. On the most liberal estimate they have 1,400,000 rifles there, giving an average of 3,700 per mile. If the German concentrations at Verdun and between the Somme and the sea are eliminated, their strength is one man per yard, including all the reserves. Hence withdrawals except from the Verdun or the British front would evidently involve great risk.

Somme Battle May Last Weeks.

Paris, July 7.—The first stage of the battle on the Somme has ended and the second has begun at least on the British sector where according to the semi-official reports methodical bombardment of the enemy's lines has recommenced. The report re-emphasises that it is no longer a question of furious assaults only but of successive moves forward after the German positions have been razed. "This great battle will last for weeks even months if necessary for we have both men and material." Meanwhile it is reported the Germans are withdrawing troops from Verdun.

Indian Questions.

London, July 5.—In the House of Commons Mr. Chamberlain said that negotiations were proceeding with Travancore State for remedying the grievance of a double export duty on tea. He had communicated with other departments of the Imperial Government which used indigo and hoped that after the war they would favourably consider the claims of the Indian industry, but he emphasised the necessity of planters cooperating to insure more scientific cultivation, better preparation and marketing arrangements, in order to secure durable results. He also said that the reports of the enquiry into the medical arrangements of Mesopotamia have not yet been received.

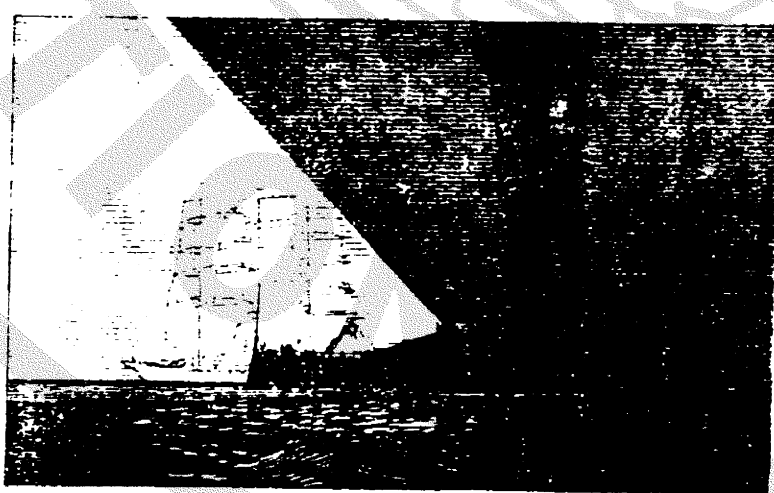

Position in Mesopotamia.

London, July 7.—In the House of Commons Mr. Tennant said it was undesirable to give information of the strength and movements or intentions of the British force on the Euphrates. Reports have been received of a raising at Kerbela against the Turks who sent a force from Bagdad but were compelled to retire.

London, July 7.—In the House of Lords, Lord Crewe said the Mesopotamia papers were ready for the printer.

Kitchener's Wonderful Spirit.

London, June 9th.—The London correspondent of the New York "Sun" has sent his paper a remarkable despatch descriptive of Lord Kitchener's work.

Frequently, says the correspondent, the late War Minister exhorted his staff to greater effort. He said: "We must win this war; that is the essential thing; that is the work before us. It makes no difference who is the workman, so long as the work is done. The people wanted me to take on this task, and I have done so; if they are dissatisfied, I would have no personal sensitiveness if they replace me, appointing somebody more capable. I would willingly resign with the consciousness that I had done my best, and give my place to a better man able to carry on and win."

The correspondent continues: "Lord Kitchener's companions in the Sudan, South Africa, and India never hesitated to call on him. At York House there were always extra covers laid for unexpected visitors. Kitchener was a glutton for work. He never permitted a subordinate to say 'I think.' He invariably replied, 'Don't think, be certain.'"

"Kitchener was a born diplomat. He daily sat at his desk in the big room on the first floor of the War Office, close to a window, where any man might easily have bombed him. Like a company chairman, crisply expressing his own opinions, deftly inviting the opinions of his colleagues he was always business-like, considerate, and conciliatory. He was at the War Office 24 hours a day. The man's only relaxation was his week-ends at Broome. His supposed austerity was really shyness. He hated crowds; he hated publicity."

The Hampshire Disaster.

London, June 11th.—Survivors of the cruiser Hampshire relate terrible experiences. When the rafts were launched, the seas were so heavy that they completely enveloped the Hampshire. The rafts came ashore five miles from the wreck. The first intimation the islanders received of the occurrence was when an exhausted and incoherent seaman tottered to a farmhouse. The farmer believed that a patrol boat had been sunk, but later the full extent of the disaster was known. Ten of the 12 men rescued are now recovering. Several rafts have been flung into crevasses of the rocky coast. The task of recovering the dead is hazardous, as the bodies have to be hoisted over the face of the cliffs with ropes. The Nether Avon, a patrol vessel, has reported that she saw the Hampshire afloat about 90 minutes after she left the Orkneys, and that the cruiser sank within 20 minutes. Seventy or 80 bodies came ashore, a number of them still warm. In their desperate efforts to climb the cliffs some of the cruiser's men lost fingers and toenails, and died from exposure.

Kitchener's Boat Swamped.

The "Daily Express" states that Lord Kitchener and members of his staff got clear of the wreck in a ship's boat, which was swamped by a terrific sea.

Lord Kitchener's proposed journey was known in England and Scotland. An article in the "Neueste Nachrichten" (Berlin) disclosed fore-knowledge of the journey last week.

Some anti-German rioting has taken place at Clerkenwell and Acton, shops of alleged Germans being badly wrecked. The crowds were angry at Lord Kitchener's death.

Central Powers' Difficulties.

London, June 11.—The Paris correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that silver is disappearing in Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey, and that iron, steel and lead are being substituted.

Bulgaria has ordered £40,000 worth of steel and lead pennies and half-pennies, and is issuing £600,000 worth of ten pence and twopenny bank notes. All new Bulgarian money is being made in Germany.

Gigantic Efforts.

London, June 11.—Lord Selborne, speaking at Lincoln, said:—

"Those who allege that we are not making an effort are deliberately telling an untruth. With all our blunders, the nation is making a gigantic contribution—naval, military, commercial, and financial—such as has never before been known in the history of mankind. On our credit, supported by our exports, rests the whole power of Russia, France, and Italy to make war. Talk about 'atlas carrying worlds.' We are doing that to-day." He urged farmers to cultivate their land to the utmost. It would, he added, be something like a reason if they did otherwise.

New Blood For Old.

You can put new blood into your enfeebled body, whatever your age may be. The human body constantly requires new, rich blood, and nearly all the ills from which people suffer arise from one cause—poverty of blood. Blood is the food-carrier of the body. If the blood is rich and strong it absorbs nourishment from the food which passes into the stomach, and it distributes that nourishment to the brain, nerves, muscles, and every other part of the system.

When the blood becomes weak and poor in quality, it cannot do its natural work of feeding brain and body. A yellow tongue, loss of appetite, a blotchy skin, low spirits, loss of breath, wind, nervous irritability, drowsiness—all indicate blood poverty.

No medicine ever prescribed can do so much as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to enrich the blood. They will enable you to absorb the nourishment from food and will destroy dangerous germs in the system. They are a blood-building tonic.

Begin to gain strength by starting Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to-day. Any dealer will supply you; only, to avoid substitutes, ask for Dr. Williams'. Also obtainable from The British Dispensary, Bangkok, sole wholesale agents for Siam. 1 bottle for 2s. 25s. 6 bottles 12s. 12/- post free.

News From Dutch Sources.

Sabang's Wireless.

The current issue of the Dutch Telephone and Telegraphic Monthly publishes an article by J. Carver, which states that Heer H. J. Nierstratz, Chief of the Sabang wireless station, heard wireless signals that he could not interpret in the early mornings in February. On making full enquiries from the mid-Java station and the Telefunken station he learned that they emanated from Nauen wireless station, Berlin, and were war news intended for the information of the Governor of German East Africa and the German Consul at Ispahan. Later on Marconi signs from station M. C. 8 were heard, and these proved to be from Carnarvon Wireless Station, North Wales. The discovery has given impetus to the idea of erecting a station powerful enough to maintain direct communication with Holland and the Dutch East Indies and so avoid foreign censorship of Dutch wireless messages.

A Berlin Communique states that a violent British-French offensive is being carried on both banks of the Somme. To the south of the Somme a German division had to retire on its second line.

After-War Problems.

Paris, June 11.—M. Pokrovski, President of the Russian Delegation to the Economic Conference in Paris, interviewed, said:—

"The Allies' purpose is to be independent of the German market, and to obtain the supremacy of the world's markets, which victory in the war will give. When Russia is reorganised and developed with the Allies' assistance she will be an inexhaustible reservoir for the Allies and neutrals."

Baron Sakatani, Japanese delegate, observed:—

"Japan, by participating in the conference, desires to prove her solidarity with the Allies. Britain's influence at the conference will be preponderant. Japan hopes that Britain will forget her old free trade principles in order to reconcile her interests with her Allies."
