Handwritten Burmese text on a palm leaf manuscript, arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is a traditional Burmese style. The text is partially obscured by a large, dark, irregular stain in the center, which appears to be a hole or a piece of tape. The leaf shows signs of age, including discoloration and wear along the edges.

Handwritten text in Khmer script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the page. The script is cursive and characteristic of traditional Khmer writing. There are several dark ink blotches and signs of wear, particularly along the left edge and in the middle of the page, which may indicate damage or corrections. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a royal decree or a historical event, given the formal nature of the script and the use of certain characters that might denote titles or specific administrative terms.

Handwritten text in Khmer script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words written in larger, bolder characters, possibly indicating titles or important terms. The script is cursive and characteristic of traditional Khmer writing. The document appears to be a page from a larger work, as evidenced by the binding edge on the left and the continuation of text across the lines.
