Handwritten Burmese text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately five horizontal lines across the page. The script is dense and characteristic of traditional Burmese calligraphy. There are two prominent dark circular ink spots or holes on the page, one located roughly in the middle of the second line and another on the right side of the third line. The paper appears aged and slightly yellowed.

Handwritten Burmese text on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately five horizontal lines. The script is a traditional Burmese style. There are two prominent circular holes on the left side of the leaf, which were used for binding multiple leaves together. The text appears to be a form of historical or administrative record, possibly a list or a set of instructions. The characters are finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.
