Important notice to teachers.

In the following Lessons, let the teacher read aloud, as correctly as possible, each word to the pupils. The children should repeat after him, at first five or six at a time. To let the whole class shout away, anyhow, will give no good results,

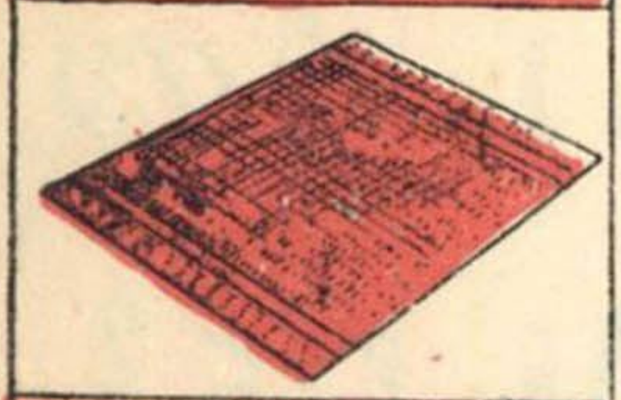

The translation may be started once the children have mastered the pronunciation of the words. If possible, let the children find out by themselves the meaning of the words.

PHONIC TABLES

These phonic tables will provide a suitable practice for the children to increase their phonic and reading power. The tables can be used for a few minutes' quick practice each day. To make this practice more effective, the tables should be read first downwards, and then across, by groups of not more than ten at a time. Care must be taken to pronounce consonants well.
