Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is finely inscribed on a light-colored, aged surface. The text is organized into several columns, with some lines containing multiple entries separated by small vertical markers or dots. The characters are compact and uniform in style, typical of ancient South Asian inscriptions. The overall layout suggests a formal record or a list of items, possibly a catalog or a set of instructions.

Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is finely inscribed on a light-colored, aged palm leaf. The text is organized into two main columns, with a central vertical line acting as a separator. The characters are small and closely spaced, typical of traditional South Asian manuscript writing. The leaf shows signs of wear, including small holes and discoloration.
