The New Tactics

is the Rifle Supercoded?

The supreme importance of the rifle is now powerfully challenged by the machine gue, the band, and rifle grounde, and the bayonet. I will almost go so far as to say that the rifle and the grenade vie with one another in value. The actual- throwing of a bomb needs dexterity, and to attain efficiency a great deal of training and instruction are required.—Lord "French's speech to the Volunteers.

A particularly interesting message on how the French infantry of the "new medel " are being trained is received from Renter's special correspondent at French Headquarters.

In nothing does the French roldier show his experiority over the enemy mere clearly than in this gift for applying on the battlefield of to-day the essons taught by the battle of yester-

Now Infantry Tactics.

With their army at grips with the enemy in the greatest battles of history, the French have found sime and means to devise an entirely new system of infantry tactice, and to instruct the majority of the regiments in the field in the new methods. The change has involved and still involves enormous labour.

The basic principle of the new infantry tactics is economy of men achieved by greater expenditure of material. The old way was too expensive in men, as all the fighting countries have found to their cost. The new way is to employ fewer men much more powerfully armed. The rifle bas ceased to be the infantryman's main weapon on this front. Hand grenades, rifle grenades, and machine gun rifles have ousted it from the pride of place.

This is strikingly demonstrated for us by the spectacle of a company in formation of attack. The specialists, as the French call them—that is, the men who fight with one or other of the new wrapons-wore white tunics to distinguish them (for the purposes of pesceful demonstration only) from the others who carried the rifle and bayonet, and the proportion of the tunion to bine was a revelation of the extent to which the rifle has been replaced by the newer engines of war,

Working it Small Goo The company is compessed of grounddiers, rifle grenade men; mechine gun rifle parties, and the seltigence! (that is men armed with the ordinary rifle and bayonet). The grenadiers (hand grenade men) work stogether in small groups, and care is taken that these groups of specialists are trained tonether like the machines of a fuetball teem; and know each other's play the.

rovebly. The specialists are interspersed in the widely spaced line with the voltigeurs, whose business is to protect them with their rifle and bayonet at close quarters and clear the: way for them at difficult moments.

In actual practice the waves of assault of which we read are irregular lines of widely spaced men working their way from one shell crater to another, following up the line of their own artillery barrage as it lifts forward, and often having to halt in their shell craters for a considerable time while their artillery is pounding the enemy's trenches and the enemy's shrapnel is bursting over their heads.

Demands of Initiative. In such conditions the men must get along in small groups and parties as best they can. They know their objectives, they have their orders, and their training must enable them to carry their orders out. To a large extent they have to work independently of their officers, for most of the time the officer can only see a few of his men, and can make himself heard, in the infernal clamour of the strack, to still fewer. Consequently the conditions are in favour of small units, trained to work together, and able to make up for the smallness of their members by the weight of fire they can bring to bear on any point whence danger menaces.

The new methods make much greater demands on the individual intelligence and initiative of the men, and it is precisely for the reason that the French (Continued on Page 7.)

The Extended British Front.

London, Dec. 31.-The "Scotsman" suys that the extension of the British front has been common knowledge in the Allied armies for some time. The course of events for the past three months has rendered the step inevitable, but a movement of such magnitide and importance sould not be carried out rapidly. The enemy was in entire ignorance of what was going on. Various schemes were employed to disguise the situation. One French unit carried out a lively raid on the German trenches at night and was relieved half an hour later to make room. lieved half an hour later to make room for British comrades. Owing to the experience gained in taking over the Albert and Avras sectors and the memorable transportation of British troops from the Aisse everything worked smoothly. The actual taking over of the positions was only possible at night time. The news has been received with the liveliest satisfaction in France where it is regarded as an effective example of the working of the unified

State Purchase of Liquor Trade.

The "Daily Chronicle" says the State would shortly buy out and control the drink trade. Although the scheme is, it adds, vast and intricate, Government will be able to utilize Mr. Lloyd George's plans made early last year. He placed a complete scheme before the Cabinet on that occasion but the Cabinet was divided. Many leading Unionists were opposed to the proposals, although Mr. Bonar Law and Mr. Balfour supported them. Thus Mr. Asquith was forced to drop the schame as too controversial The scheme as too controversial. The Treesury objected to issuing the necessary bonds for three hundred million sterling because that would be pre-judicial to the war borrowings. Many temperance extremists are also hostile to State ownership and they also helped to kill the scheme.

The "Morning Post" states that the Cabinet has not yet considered any scheme for the purchase of the liquor trade and it doubts whether the attempt will be made.

It considers that nothing would weaken the new Government so much se embarking on such controversial subjects.

The War Council

a Secretariat for the War Council is Remedy. For sale by the British Disrapidly proceeding. Its headquarters | pensary.

Downing Street. Practically the Council and its staff will absorb the funettons of the Committee of Imperial Defence, leaving to the latter the historical work of the Council. The Secretariat will have the services of Sir Mistrice Hankey, Colonel Swinton, Major Jones, Sir Mark Sykes and Cap-tain Amery among others. They will form a channel of communication between the Council and the Departments. When a decision is reached the officer of the Council will explain it orally and remain in advisory touch with the departments until the decision is in process of being carried out.

The Council itself will thereby be freed from the cares of departmental worry and advice and be able to concentrate on the next problem.

Scottish Nurse in the Serbian Ranks.

London, December 31.—The "Daily Chronicle's " Salonika correspondent telegraphs that the only woman patient in a camp of 1,609 wounded Serbians is Miss Flora Sands, a Scotswoman, formerly a nurse. After witnessing the Serbian suffering and heroism she enlisted as a private during the 1915 retreat and won promotion to the rank of sergeant before the army reached the Adriatic. She next participated in the ardnous and successful September offensive. She lived for three months in an atmosphere of bursting shells, whistling bullets and hand-to-hand encounters on towering heights.

Miss Sands was the first out of her trench and across the snow covered ground in an assault of a height on the crest of the mountains. She had reached a Bulgar trench whan a hand grenade burst, inflicting 26 wounds on her right side, leaving it a mass of torn flesh and shattered bone.

A royal aide-de-camp, on behalf of the Serbian Prince Regent, has visited the hospital and presented Miss Sands with a Serbian decoration only given for conspicuous bravery.

Germany's Latest Note.

War on Sea With A Vengeance.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

London, Feb. 2. New York .- A despatch from Berlin says that a German Note based on President Wilson's address is stated to have been communicated to neutrals. It declares that the rejection of the peace offer forces Germany to disregard the restrictions of naval warfare from February 1st and asks the United States to co-operate to prevent the sacrifice of life by warning American ships not to enter certain barred zones.

Later.-The harbour of New York has been closed and all departures are forbidden. A torpedo boat is stopping all arrivals at the quarantine island. It is believed that German merchantmen are preparing to dash out seawards The Police are guarding the docks where five Hamburg America liners are interned.

(HAVAS TELEGRAM.)

Paris, Feb. 1. Germany has addressed a Note to the United States stating that owing to the rejection of the peace offer by the Entente, Austria and Germany have decided to torpedo all vessels without distinction of flag or cargo and that they give a period of five days beginning from the lst of February for all steamers to return to their ports.

An additional memorandum points out that the regular service of American passenger steamers might be continued following a fixed itinerary.

Germany has addressed the same Note to all the neutral countries. Austria has associated herself in this.

Court Circular.

SANAM CHANDRA, Thursday, February 1. This afternoon the King's Own Regiment of Artillery Scouts was received by His Majesty the King at the Headquarters of the King's Own Legion of Scout Guards.

Scout-Lieutenant His Serene Highness Prince Mongela Pravati, Acting Commanding Officer of the King's Own Regiment of Arrillery Scoute, read an address on behalf of the officers and men of the Regiment expressing their deep appreciation of the honour His Majesty had done them by tecoming their Honorary Chief. The fact that His Majesty had paid special attention to the study of this particular arms and had moreover won a certificate in musketry while completing his military training in England is still ripe in every Scout's mind. As a sign of their loyalty towards His Majesty's Person they prayed the King to accept the uniform of the Regiment.

The King was graciously pleased to reply accepting the uniform and exproming his appreciation of the honone they did him. Artillery is the right arm of an army, said His Majesty, and to form a regiment of it in the King's Own Legion of Scout Guards had always been constant in his thoughts.
Therefore He had special reasons for gratification in having found the Regiment making such progress in so short a period. Finally His Majesty asked them to regard him as one of their members, always ready to give them the benefit of his knowledge and to help them in every way. The King ended by calling three cheers for the Regiment.

Theft of Valuables.

Discovery of a Clue.

Some weeks ago there was a theft of valuables from the safe of Phya Dam. rong, of the Army Medical Service and an inmate of the house was charged with the theft. However no trace of the lost property was discovered until three days ago when, in a Chinese shop where forfeited pawned articles are sold, the Police found an article cut up into several pieces which Phya Damrong has been able to clearly identify as one of the lost articles. The Chinese shop keeper says that he had exchanged this with some other article but could not give any discription of his customer. The Police has now entered a charge against the shop keeper and it is hoped this will lead to the eventual discovery of all the stolen articles valued at about Ticals 20,000.

German Plans for 1917.

London, Jan. 11.—The "Times" military correspondent, examining possible German moves, decides that an offensive in the West would suit us so well that we dare not hope for it. Another attack from the Trentino with greater weight on the Carso than last year is possible, but the probability is that the campaign against Russia, broken off in the autumn of 1915, will be resumed this year. We must also have ever in mind the possibility of a desperate endeavour by the enemy navies to break the blockade that is strangling them.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We do not necessarily endorse the rieses of our correspondents.]

The Meklong Railway.

In the Bangkok Times of 31st Jan. I read that the Board of Directors have graciously renounced their fee for 1916 owing to the decrease in income, but it seems they do not know, that in accordance with the Articles of Association they can claim no fees unless a dividend of at least 5 per cent. per annum is paid. As the decrease is stated to be Ticals 35,000 in fish carrying traffic and Ticels 10,000 in passenger truffic, it is possible to pay a dividend of 4 per cent. per annum as the Directors fee of Ticals 8,000 and the balance Ticals 22,390.80 carried forward from last year, go towards paying the dividend, which on 1 per cent. is Ticals 22,300.

I have been told the Board of Directors have bought a piece of land for about Ticals 8,000 at a rate of Ticals 6.56 per square wah, and I shall be glad if the Board of Directors will state in public. why they have paid such an exceedingly high price for common jungle land out in the country.

Russian Economic Freedom.

Petrograd, Dec. 28.-The new Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs has declared that the close economic union of the Allies after the war will give freedom to Russian trade which has been paralysed owing to commercial treaties with Germany. The Minister added that Russian relations with Japan were assuming the character of an Alliance. Japan had rendered eminent service to Russia in providing munitions.

Johannesburg, December 17.-The greatest gathering of Dutch since before the Boer War celebrated Dingaan's Day at Paarde Kraal, near Krugersdorp. The German Peace.

London Dec. 31.—The "Manchester Guardian" says: It is believed that the German peace formula provides that Germany shall retire within her west ern frontier; she shall rebuild Betgium herself; the Alsace-Lorraine boundary may be altered by a separate commission; Poland and Lithuania shall be independent; Germany shall retire in the Baltic provinces to her old frontier; Italy shall keep Gorizia and that an American commission shall settle the Balkan boundaries. She will agree to the loss of her Colonies except those in East Africa.

Washington Disturbed at Armenian Horrors.

Washington, December 20.—It is learned from the State Department that Turkey's conduct towards Armenians and Syrians has brought to an abrupt termination the extra-territoriality agreements with the United States, and has created a situation that is postponing confirmation of the appointment of Fuad Bey as Ambassador in Washington.

In August of last year, the State Department instructed the American Embassy in Constantinople to make representations to the Porte in the name of humanity that it should not permit a massacre of Armenians in Persia such as had occurred in Asia Minor.

The Imperial Conference.

London, December 22.-The "Manchester Guardian" says . What impresses one most in the invitation to the Dominion Premiers is the energy and promptitude displayed. It is a month since the small War Cabinet was initiated and only a week since Mr. Lloyd George made his first speech as Premier. It is hoped that the first meeting will be at the end of February, thus necessitating distant Premiers packing their boxes immediately. Rapidity of decision and promptness of action are supreme virtues. They argue well for the future. Government departments are no longer forts of pas-sivity resisting the influence of new ideas. The article concludes with the hope that the conference will discuss the Irish settlement question.

Training Notes.

The finishing gallops are now being given to the various horses entered at the forthcoming Sports Club meeting. Of the Cup candidates I saw Phung Boon, Mars. Sunflower Iownir, Nai Pradisht and Say When at fast work this morning, but the thick mist prevented watching the going during the early part of the morning. I am still of opinion that there will be nothing to beat Mars. What I cannot understand is why an owner should have two or even three Cup candidates. The pick of the lot should surely be enough and I suppose on the day of the roces there would be five candidates representing the five stables which have entered. I saw Laksfoss, long necked, ugly and lankey but I suppose he makes up in speed for lack of good looks. He was at walking exercise with Dirty Dick up. Gladys C. and Royal Page were sent once round at three quarter speed. saw the late Thai Raow vainly endeavouring to beat Tuong Chai in a round the course contest. Three other Siamese ponies did an excellent half mile neck and neck together.

Woman Condemned To Death.

Mme Tichelly, a widow, was condemned to death as a spy in Paris. She was born in Paris in 1870, of German parents, but acquired French nationality through failing to refuse it on arriving at majority. Marrying a Swiss she retained, on becoming a widow, the Swiss nationality she had obtained. She served in many hotels as a chambermaid, and was in France when war was declared. Without a scruple, she became a spy for Germany and was paid liberally.

The questions the court-martial had to answer concerning her, according to the "Figaro", were:-

Is the person named Jeannette Antoinette Dufay, widow Tichelly, guilty of having in January and February, procured for Germany information about the situation of French forces which might injure the position of the armies? Is she guilty of having, in June, 1916, attempted to obtain for Germany information about the position of the French forces?

The trial took place with in closed doors, and the questions being answered unanimously in the affirmative, the death sentence was passed

National War Service Scheme.

London, Dec. 22 .- The " Daily Chronicle," in outlying the scope of the national war service scheme, says: It is of the boldest and most far reaching character. Men between 17 years and 56 years of age must place themselves at the disposal of the State for the duration of the war and consent to be transferred to occupations and localities where they are most required. It is essential that the State shall have power to control and direct the mobility of labour. There is no guarantee at present that the man released from the army for agricultural work will return to the land. Government proposes that full trade union wages shall be paid to war workers in addition to a subsistence allowance of 2s. 64. daily if the men are transferred so as to necessitate their maintaining two homes.

A schedule of indispensable and non-essential trades has been drawn up. Non-essential industries will be shut down without compunction in order that labour may be available for munition and productive industries. The mobility of labour is important. It is estimated that 40 per cent. of war workers are at any given time idle owing to lack of mobility.

One of Sir Neville Chamberlain's chief functions will be the transferring of batches of men to places where workers are urgently required. He will have power to billet war workers in private houses. The trade union leaders are associated with Sir Neville Chamberlain in this work. Following the lines of Lord Derby's recruiting scheme a short period will be allowed for the voluntary enrolment of war workers and, if the necessary men are forthcoming, Government will appeal to Parliament for compulsory powers.

The War Office has released 12,000 miners who are unfit for general service and these have returned to the

The Capture of El Arish.

London, December 27.—The "Daily Chronicle's " Cairo correspondent telegraphs that the evacuation of El Arish ends th . Turco-German pretension to attack the Su-z Canal. The Turks have quitted this most important and strategic point of Eastern Egypt and have relinquished a strong natural position offering many difficult points to assailants. The attack on the part of the British column was at the rail-head and concentration began at daybreak. The desert all day long presented a woud-rful spectacle. As far as the eve could reach lines of Australians and New Zealand horsemen with English yeomanry, cavalry and Territorial infantry wound over the high scrubcovered sand dunes, some hidden in valleys while others cut the skyline like razor blades. Our airmen escorting the column kept off the enemy aeroplanes. The bombing on the previous days had rendered it necessary for four airmen to be on the wing from dawn to dusk and, b-sides the work of patrolling to protect the column, they denied all opportunity to the enemy to reconnoitre. Meanwhile the heavily laden trains carried forward stores while thousands of transport camels followed the fighting force, moving in almost uncanny silence on a comparatively narrow

The information was brought to the rail-head early in the evening that the Turks were leaving El Arish. It was decided to push forward one division to secure the town, which, after a difficult night march, our horsemen and cavalry completely surrounded by daybreak. The bulk of the population of El Arish remained to welcome the British and Imperial troops. The majority were hungry and immediate arrangements were made to feed them. El Arish has several times been bombarded from the sea and if proof is needed of the Navy's d-sire to spare the civilians and of its good gunnery, it is to be found in the fact that while a strongly built stone fort on the southern edge of the town was demolished, hardly one mud or brick house among the many in the immediate vicinity was grazed or touched. Mr. Massey in a message from El Arish warmly praises the horsemen and camelry for their day and night march through extremely difficult country, with great precision of movement. Mr. Massey accompanied a convoy to El Arish. He says the first eight miles consisted of rolling billows of sand and deep valleys with plentiful scrub. The dunes have sharp crests and steep sides like cliffs thus necessitating long and tortuous windings. The hoof marks of the terrific gradients showed that the whole regiments scaled the giddy paths in yielding sand. It is almost incredible that these intrepid horsemen ascended. Perhaps here is explained the Turkish neglect to construct War Supplies.

Berlin, Dec. 30.-The German Admiralty reports: In the North Arctic Ocean, east of the North Cape, the steamer Suchan, of the Russian Volunteer Fleet, was captured a short time ago. The steamer carried a cargo of war material and was bound from America to Archangel. After the Russian officers of the ship had been taken prisoners on board of the Gorman submarine, a German naval officer assisted by a non-commissioned officer took command of the steamer and sue was brought to a German port, accompanied by the submarine. There it was discovered that the steamer had belonge I to the Hamburg-America Line, under the name of Spezia and had been confiscated at the beginning of the war by the Russians in the port of Vladivostock. The cargo of the steamer, which is worth many millions, is composed of; 100,000 shrapnel, calibre 7.5 centimetres; 75.000 blasting grenades, calibre 7.5 centime tres; 150,000 projectiles, calibre 3.7

centimetres; 250,000 fuses for blasting grenades; 100,000 time fuses; 125,000 screws for fuses; 150,000 kilograms of nitrotomol; 175,000 kilograms of tube powder; 40,000 kilograms of black powder; 127 projectiles, 150 projectiles, calibre (?) centimetres; 150 cylinders with acids; 1,230,000 kilograms of lead in bars; 7 truck automobiles; 200 bales of sole leather; 500 spools of barbed wire; 6,000 pieces of railroad rails.

German Hopes of Spain.

Madras, December 18.—The Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Don Amalio Gimeno, referring guardedly vesterday to the peace preparities made by the Central Empires, only said that the King has received a letter "similar to the one addressed to the Pope" But it transpired last night that the letter addressed to Don Afforms by the German Government centains a pressing appeal, reminding him of his humanitarian efforts to mitigate the suffering created by the struggle.

I have been informed that the test is very skilfully drafted in order to impress Don Alfouso personally, through his humane sentiments, and move him to a step beyond the mere transmission of the message by the Spanish Government to the Governments of Belgium and Portugal.

No time has been lost by the Spanish Government in sending the Note to Lisbon and at the same time handing a copy of it to the Portuguese Minister in Madrid. The Spanish Government has not added a word to the Note of the Central Empires. It has more'y transmitted it.

Portugal Will Stand Plem. It is reported that Senhor Alfonso Costa has said that Portugal has no answer to give to such a vague and obscure document but will merely endorse whatever her allies may may—if they may anything. Portugal is linked to the end to France and England. The same opinion, says a despatch, prevails among all elements of the Portuguese people. Moreover, the proposition is regarded by every member of the Portuguese Cabinet as another proof of Teutonic bad faith, and malice, being designed to impress nea-trals, to divide the Allies and to prolong the delusions of the Germans themselves, making them believe in the nearness of peace while the German Government has time to carry out its scheme af mobilization and thus prevent any revolutionary onthurst at home.

As to Spain, Senor Maura's declarations that no matter what efforts Spain may make to keep aloof from the struggle, sooner or later she must be involved in it, have made a profound sensation. The famous stateman refused to-day to say more, merely adding that the opportunity for Spain to step in is a matter for the Government to decide.

Neither the Premier nor any member of the Cabinet will speak about the German offer, but they do not conceal their disbelief in peace at present, a feeling openly confessed by the "Diario Universal," Conde de Romanones'

I am in a position to say, after can-vasting: every inspettant man-in all dynamic parties, from tife Tremier to Senor Date, that the German proposition will not alter Spain's prudent and cautious attitude, and that, unless clearly setted by one of the belligerents to make in its name clear and specific proposals of peace, the Spanish Government will not intervene in that sense. It is universally agreed here that sense, it is universally agreed here that sense, the loyal neutrality Spain has carried out so far, with the approval and gravitude of all matters.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Zheer is a report surrent here to the eff of that the diplomatio representatives of Spain and Switzerland are understood to have informed. Mr. Lansing, Secretary of State, that their countries, following the example of the Unitedilizates, will forward without making any continent, the German's peace, proposels to the Powers of the Entents.—"Matin,"

Austria's: Reply,

New York, December 29.—The text of Austria's reply to Dr. Wilson different alightly from the reply as originally issued. The text contains the following paragraph: "The Austrian Government likewise concerns in the opinion that only after the termination of the present war will it be possible to undertake the great and desirable work of the prevention of future wars." At an appropriate time Austria will be ready to co-operate with the United States in the realisation of this notice.

The German text contains the following-paragraph. "It is the view of the Imperial Government that the great work of the prevention of future wars can be first taken up only after the ending of the precent conflict of exhaustor."

The "World's" Washington correspondent understands: that Germany is prepared to abanden her demand for the independence of Poland and Lithuania and will agree to evecuate Russia, Belgium and France and to restore and indemnify Belgium. She admits that the invasion of Belgium was illegal but an unavoidable military necessity. She demands the territorial integrity of Germany's allies and the restoration of her own colonies.

The German Embessy at Washington has inspired a statement that the Entente Powers consider that guarantees for the future are casential. They might make some declaration as to the principles to which they are willing to subscribe; leaving the detaile for saidlement by a conference.

Terrific Fire.
The weight of fire which such an attacking line can being to bear is terrific. The rifle grenades and up a continuous barrage far in: advance of the line. The grenadissecur: fling in the face of an advancing anomy a wall of fiame and flying sted through which nothing human can pass.

Of the formidable volume of fire which a handful of men armed with such weapons can discharge we were afforded ocular proofs. A detachment was ordered to concentrate its fire on a given line representing the front of an enemy attack. Grenadiers, rifle grenade men, and machine gunners stood to attention.

A bugle sounded, and an instant later a line of roaring explosions marked the head of the supposed enemy attack. Bullets whistled, splinters sang through the air. In a few seconds an impenetrable curtain of smoke hid the line of bursting grenades. No one could have advanced over that ground,

"Smothering" A Given Point. Armed with rifles only, that handful of men would doubtless account for a good many of the enemy, but they could not have set up an impassable barrage as they can with the new weapons. An object lesson in the gentle art of "smothering" with fire a given point in which the enemy may be holding out after wings have been driven back was equally convincing. The given point was smothered, smashed, and suffocated a few seconds after the bugle sounded the signal for the infernal cacophony of grenades and

It must be remembered that these "displays" however imposing, by no maste represent the entire weight of fire the French attack possesses.

A little gur has figured in most of 'the aghting on the Somme, and did excellent work in many engagements, notistly at Morval, where one of them issocked out the two last German maobine-guns in the wall of a wrecked house at a range of 50 yards when the French were too close for their artil lery to support them.

The value of the new tactics has already been abundantly proved on the Somme and Verdun. In the first four months of the Somme offensive the French actually bad fewer casualties against their brilliant successes Subscription Tcs 4 per mensem than in the few days of the Champagn- offensive last year. But we have not by any means reaped full value of the new methods. As more and more divisions have been trained in these tactics the French High (ommand has been able to reduce steadily and surely the price paid in lives for each gain of ground, until in the past few weeks we have had the important advance south of the Somme in October and the recapture of Douaumont and Thiaumont at Verdun, in both of which the total casualties of the French were well under half the number of prisoners telt 1.

The Art of War.

These results have been attained in a short time through unremitting labour. But it is not the infantry alone that is profiting by the lessons of war. Every French rriny has its infantry, artillery, and engineering schools, in which new methods are being worked out and new possibilities carefully studied. Each army corps has within its own organisation smaller schools where the work is less intensive. There are even divisional schools for special anbjects.

The French soldier divides his time between fighting and learning. He returns to the front after his three months' course in the army school charged with fresh knowledge of his profession. After a few months in the rougher school of the battlefield he often comes back to the instruction school for another three months to rub up his "speciality." And in the intervals of study he imparts the knowledge he has gained to the Germans in the form of practical demonstration on he battlefield.

Rush for Whisky in Glasgow.

London, Dec. 19.- There was an extraordinary rush in Glasgow to obtain supplies of whisky, a belief in coming prohibition being prevalent. As soon as the premises of the wholesale and retail wine merchants were opened they were invaded by waiting queues, and large travelling hampers were used in which to take away bottles. The merchants state that the rush was un-paralleled. Many shops were cleared of their stocks soon after midday. The rush for supplies is said to be due to the Clyde shipbuilders' pronouncement that there must be prohibition if they are to execute the mercantile tonnage on hand.

Wireless Russian Official .-- After a bombardment with chemical shells the enemy strongly attacked along the Kalucem-Chlok high road and also northeast of Kaincem pressing us back two-thirds of a mile. He occupied a small sector of our trenches cost of Kalucem.

We advanced in the snow and captured at the point of the bayonet heights east of Jacobeni. We captured pris mers and beety.

The Irish Prisoners.

London, Dec. 21st. - In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. John Dillon moved the adjournment to urge the release of Irish prisoners before Christmar, and thus create a better atmosph re in Ireland.

The Chief Secretary for Ireland (Mr. Duke) said rebellion had been prepared all over Ireland. The Government's policy had been that if a man's release would not detract from peace he was allowed to go. Lately there had been an improvement in appeasement; but he could not authorise a wholesale release. The Premier had authorised him to say he would approach the subject with a desire to release the prisoners and that the Government hoped to reach an immediate decision on the subject.

London, December 22nd .- The Chief Secretary for Ireland (Mr. Duke) stated yesterday in the House of Commons that steps had been taken to return the interned Irish prisoners to their homes. He hoped this act of condonation would result in unmixed good.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor expressed satisfaction and said the Nationalists were assured that this measure would not be attended by an insecurity of law and

Tidal Wave in Japan.

Details of the storm in the northern districts of Japan extending from the Tsugaru Strait to Toyama prefecture on the Japan Sea began to reach Tokio on the night of December 31, showing the great extent of the disaster caused by the storms. The typhoon arose on the previous Thursday. On that night high waves attacked the coast between Ichifuri and Oyashirazu on the Hokuriku railway line.

About 5 o'clock the following ,morning a tidal waveswept the shore, wiping It was announced in Dublin that the majority of the political prisoners chi were washed away and many lives to the majority of the political prisoners. away an embankment thirty feet high.

known. Part of the railway line between Oyashirazu and Aoumi was destroyed and the train service demoralised. Travellers attempted passage on foot, but were driven back by the heavy snow, at some places lft. 6in. deep. Rescue parties have gone in search of the railroad officials and workmen.
