Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, written on aged paper. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is dense and cursive. There are several small black circular marks (possibly ink splatters or holes) scattered across the page. Some characters are written in a slightly larger or bolder hand than others, possibly indicating emphasis or specific grammatical markers. The overall appearance is that of an ancient manuscript or a historical record.

Small handwritten mark or character within the main text.

Small handwritten mark or character at the bottom right of the page.

Handwritten Burmese text on aged paper, featuring multiple lines of script with various annotations and symbols. The text is written in a cursive style characteristic of traditional Burmese manuscripts. Annotations include small numbers (1-5) and Burmese characters placed above or below the main lines of text. Two prominent black circular marks are visible in the center of the page. The paper shows signs of age, including yellowing and some staining.
